

Dr. Shiri Sherf-Dagan

Dr. Sherf-Dagan is a lecturer in the Department of Nutrition Sciences, Ariel University and a dietitian-researcher at Assuta Medical Centers. Moreover, she is the vice chair of the integrated health committee of IFSO European Chapter.

Dr. Sherf-Dagan current research focus is nutrition aspects of bariatric surgery in the pre- and post-terms including nutritional deficiencies, dietary supplementation, preparation programs and educational regimes pre-surgery, success definitions, nutrition complications and therapies, long-term nutritional outcomes, and populations at nutritional risk such as vegetarians. Dr. Sherf-Dagan investigates some medical aspects of bariatric surgery in the short and long-run following the surgery. One major medical topic of interest is GI symptoms and its potential therapies. Furthermore, Dr. Sherf-Dagan is engaged in research on weight bias and obesity definition.